Ecology Group Tries to Prevent Repeat of Pedro Fish Kill

By JOHN CURRY

While the State Department of Fish and Game is at a standstill in its investigation of the latest fish kill in San Pedro Creek in Pacifica, a local ecology group has decided to try to keep it from happening again.

The creek, running down from the hills to the ocean through Linda Mar, has just a focal point for a cleanup campaign and marks the branching out of Ecology Action Now, Inc., a group devoted till now primarily to picking up litter.

The latest fish kill occurred Dec. 22 when Fish and Game workers recovered 37 dead steelhead. They were taken to the state hatchery at Folsom for analysis. Water analysis tests haven't been conclusive, according to Fish and Game public relations officer Frank Hubbard.

The water taken at the time showed a trace of lindane, but not enough to be considered lethal, Hubbard said. Lindane is a strong insecticide. Much of the pollution of San Pedro Creek has been blamed on runoffs from private property upstream, which includes insecticides from crops.

Also, the kill occurred during a "high water flow" right after a rain, Hubbard noted, which means that there could have been one strong "slug" of polluted runoff which washed downstream and was gone before investigators got to it.

"We're at a standstill on this thing now," Hubbard said.

The county Environmental Health Section of the Health and Welfare Department had made its monthly water sampling of the Linda Mar Beach, including the mouth of San Pedro Creek, on Dec. 21, the day before the dead fish were found.

Those analysis results aren't in yet, according to Henry Eich, EHS director, but "They're nothing to hang our hat on, anyway."

A crowd of some 60 persons last week at an Ecology Action Now meeting decided to initiate a cleanup campaign and issue a brochure outlining how the stream can be kept free of pollutants.

Hopefully the cleanup campaign will begin within a month. The group has had the cooperation of the San Francisco Scavenger Co. and the city of Pacifica in its earlier efforts and hopes to have it again. The scavengers have provided trash bins for roadside litter picked up in earlier projects.

Larry Green of San Bruno, an outdoor writer for magazines, also told the groups of a plan of his to restock the creek with steelhead.

Growth in Jeff High's Job Project

The Jefferson Union High School District's Work Experience Education Program (WEEP) has mushroomed in its three years.

Michael Orlich, program supervisor, said that from a beginning in 1966-67 of 50 pupils, WEEP as of Jan. 4 had 328 student workers.

The students are from Terra Nova and Oceana in Pacifica and Westmoor, Serramonte, Thornton and Jefferson in Daly City.

Orlich said the WEEP staff last year processed papers for 820 regularly employed students who worked about 590,400 hours on several different kinds of jobs.

He said that over 3,400 students were interviewed during the 1969-70 school term and about 850 applications are pending.

Processings at the individual schools: Jefferson, 202; Oceana, 130; Terra Nova, 113; Serramonte, 40; Thornton, 51; Westmoor, 284.

Orlich's staff provides job promotion and counseling, selects and refers students, verifies work opportunities, evaluates students, supervises work.

Sloane said he approved. Orlich predicted that "some day" every high school in the (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

Not Guilty Plea Entered

A plea of not guilty to various charges of possession of stolen property in connection with a find of a cache of weapons in San Bruno has been entered by Calvin Stephens.

The 38-year-old singer, of 101 Merced Drive, San Bruno, has been ordered to answer to Superior Court January 21 at 9 a.m. Stephens was arrested last week after police responded to a call from his wife, and found the arsenal.

No Hasty Container Decision

San Bruno councilmen Monday avoided a quick introduction of an ordinance to ban the sale of non-returnable cans and bottles.

The same three South San Francisco High School students — Maureen Kirwin, Bob Bowen and David Fassler — who talked South San Francisco councilmen into such a move last week were at the San Bruno council meeting.

Councilman Dick Griffith asked to have the city attorney draw up such an ordinance. "We should move ahead on this," he said.

Fellow Councilman Ted Long suggested councilmen wait until after a scheduled environmental control meeting Wednesday night before making any decisions.

"It is important that we approach this with caution, probably more caution than South San Francisco," said Long. "We're not so sure that the returnable bottle in itself is the solution."

Long said this particular matter has been discussed extensively at the environmental control meetings. The consensus, according to Long, was that people may feel justified in throwing away a bottle once they've paid a deposit.

"Our ultimate goal is to seek complete recycling," said Long. "We have to find a way to insure that these containers stay on a continual recycling process."

Councilman Maurice Hamilton in agreeing with Long said, "This (ban) won't suddenly make saints out of consumers."

South San Francisco, meanwhile can (and does) expect repercussions on the proposed ban on non-returnable bottles. The ordinance requires a second (Please See Page 2, Column 5)

Ouster of Former Skyline Student President Upheld

The cancellation of enrollment at Skyline College of Daniel A. Tobias, former student body president, has been upheld by President Philip G. Garlington.

In a letter to Clifford C. Erickson, chancellor of the San Mateo Junior College District, Garlington approved a move taken by Dean of Students James C. Wyatt in recommending the cancellation, and a 4-2 vote of the hearing board agreeing with Wyatt's action.

The Skyline president, who received the hearing board transcripts December 29, based his consideration on three specific parts of the report, a spokesman said.

They are: "The failure of Tobias to give full and complete information in his application for admission to Skyline College; Tobias' incomplete application for Federal financial aid; the appropriate penalty for such application irregularities."

Hopes for an early answer to Daly City's local bus dilemma appeared dim today. Monday night representatives of the Northgate Transit Company told the city council they were hopeful a new insurance broker will be able to provide their company with coverage this week.

Northgate's liability insurance was cancelled for unexplained reasons last Friday. The insurance carrier refused to renew.

Another broker informed the company, which has a low 29.7 per cent loss ratio, that a new policy could be issued at double the previous premium — from $18,000 annually to some $36,000 for the company's 13 buses.

George E. Ferris, general manager and part owner of the company, approached the city earlier asking them to back a bond that would allow the buses to meet the insurance requirements. Ferris said the company would pay the cost of the bond.

City attorney Albert Polonsky

recommended the city reject the request.

Mayor Bernard Lycett asked Ferris why the company had not asked the city for assistance until after "the horse had run away."

"I didn't want to worry the people," Ferris answered. In the past the insurance companies had threatened cancellation, however the brokers assured the company there was no need for worry, that a new policy would be forthcoming, Ferris said.

This time the policy was not forthcoming and the State Public Utility Commission, which governs the buses, suspended their permit to operate.

Lycett asked Northgate bus owner-operator Al Bickham and Ferris "What are we going to tell the people?"

"You're going to tell them you are helping us or you are going to tell them you are going to Mission Street (San Francisco) and get some obsolete vans," Bickham answered.

Bickham was referring to the 12-passenger Mission Street jitneys that operate in San Francisco.

Members of the jitney associations, along with a representative of an organization called Servicar, Inc., were present at the meeting.

Al Graf, spokesman for the jitneys, said his organization would assist the city in supplying temporary transportation for the city's 3,000 to 4,000 passengers.

Meanwhile, Ferris said he was "reasonably sure" his company would be back in operation this week.

San Bruno Council Polarized

Nothing Being Accomplished, So Pre-Meeting Caucus Not Held

By BOB PETERSON

Polarization among San Bruno councilmen has reached such a point they unanimously agreed on Monday to dispense with the pre-meeting caucus because nothing was being accomplished.

Councilmen introduced an ordinance that will change the starting time of the regular council meetings from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

It all started when Councilman Dick Griffith at the beginning of the caucus session suggested that instead of holding the pre-council meeting in the caucus room the councilmen move out into the main council chamber.

When his suggestion was passed over he left the caucus session. At the beginning of the regular council session he appeared with a prepared statement to the effect he planned to boycott the caucus sessions until it was moved out into the council chamber.

Later he made an official motion to move the caucus session out to the council chamber.

Councilman Ted Long then made an amended motion that the caucus session be eliminated entirely.

Councilman Maurice Hamilton, also a staunch supporter of the caucus in the past, went along with the elimination. He said the desire to bring the councilmen physically out to the council chamber instead of holding a session in the caucus room has become an obsession with Griffith.

"He always maintains it's (the caucus meeting) been a violation of the Brown Act. This is simply not true," said Hamilton. "I'm concerned about eliminating a study session, because it's needed. But it's true, since July (City Manager Christopher Menkin's appointment) we councilmen aren't talking to each other very much."

Talk on Rubbish at D.C. Council Meet

By FRANK LAPIERRE

In one of the longest meetings in the history of the Daly City Council, rubbish, weeds and debris occupied much of the time.

Since the city undertook their spruce up campaign some four months ago, a total of 194 property owners have been told to clean up their lands or else.

The "or else" means that if the landowner neglects to promptly follow the city's suggestion, the city will send in people to abate the nuisance.

So far, it has paid off in rid- ding Daly City of what one city official described as "some rather unsightly lots."

No one has escaped receiving one of the letters if their property is rubbish strewn or covered with a bumper crop of weeds.

The price for cleaning off the lots depend on bids from private contractors. In rare cases city forces will clean up a lot and bill the landowner.

Fire damaged structures are also falling under the nuisance abatement program.

Councilman Louis J. Papan said he has seen a marked improvement in the appearance of many vacant lots in the city since the cleanup started.

On the other hand Thomas J.

Callan, owner of several lots off Hillcrest Drive, complained the cost for removing "several Christmas trees" dumped on his lots by neighbors, was excessive.

Callan was hit with a $125 bill for "weeds and trash." He argued that sometimes weeds were needed to protect the land, especially during the rainy season.

The methods in which the city engineering department, responsible for the program, distinguishes between weed abatement and rubbish removal prompted Mayor Bernard Lycett to ask if some property owners weren't being harassed?

Specifically the mayor asked when should a weed be considered a nuisance.

He pointed out that in previous years weeds were chopped down when they were considered to be a fire hazard. No such hazard exists during the rainy season, he said.

The mayor also suggested that landowners need help in maintaining clean lots. He noted that an increasing number of residents simply take their trash to a vacant lot and dump it.

Both Lycett and Papan agreed persons caught littering should be severely punished under the law.

Another council member, Frank Pacelli, agreed that weeds serve a purpose during the rainy season and suggested the city arrive at a "happy medium" in dealing with the problem.

Edward J. Kirby, state director of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has rejected a decision by his hearing officer clearing Supervisor Bob St. Clair of all charges against him.

Kirby asked for a transcript of the hearings and will reach a final decision within a month which may be appealed.

Hearing Officer E. A. McDonald had ruled after months of hearings that there was no preponderance of evidence that the charges against St. Clair had been proven.

St. Clair had been accused of maintaining an illegal silent partner in his business at St. Clair Liquors, 3900 Twenty-fourth Street, San Francisco.

City Engineer Dave Thompson said recent traffic counts showed a use of about 4,600 vehicles daily.

Thompson and Mayor Nick Gust, one of the strong supporters of the Rockaway Avenue alignment, called the present Sea Bowl exit hazardous. They said 30,000 cars use Route 1 each day and that sight distance, particularly to the south, is poor.

It will cost an estimated $175,000 more to tie the Fasser into Route 1 at Rockaway Avenue, Thompson indicated.

LAFCO Hearing: DC Asks Land

Help for D.C. Latino Pupils

A program to learn why students of Spanish descent fail or drop out of Serramonte and Jefferson High schools will be launched in Daly City.

The San Mateo County Board of Education will fund the pilot project, proposed by Tony Gonzales, county inter-group coordinator.

Gonzales said the two North County schools were selected because of their Latin enrollments and education interest.

The program also was kept at two schools because of cost.

There are 500 Spanish-surnamed students at the two schools.

What is learned from the Daly City program could be applied to the three other Jefferson Union High School District schools, where there are another 400 Spanish students, Gonzales explained.

The actual proposal, accepted by JUHSD trustees, was for a school-community worker.

The liaison person's work, Gonzales offered, would involve student absence follow-up, conferences with parents, students and the county educational coordinator if needed, counseling, stressing the importance of an education for Latin students, informing the county educational coordinator of needs, problems and other pertinent data.

Gonzales wrote in his proposal that lower scholastic performance of the Mexican-American might be attributed to the language barrier, bilingualism, biculturalism, socio-economic background, motivation, educational opportunities, family influences and/or attitudes toward education.

"Understanding the individual and gaining insight into his learning and behavioral patterns are prerequisite to any effective school program," Gonzales pointed out.

"For the Mexican-American there has been a lack of both insight and understanding," he said.

The trustee vote was unanimous, although Board President Al Teglia wondered whether or not the program could accomplish what it sets out to do.

Asst. Supt. Ernest Ribera, a former Jefferson High principal, said he did not think the scales were "being tipped in favor of the Spanish surnamed." Teglia had expressed that concern.

Mrs. Esther Talavera of 468 Willits Street, Daly City, charged that there is a "definite lack of interest by the schools in Daly City for the Spanish-speaking student."

She said a liaison person would be beneficial — if not to the district, then "to our children."

"You do not have the right people involved," she claimed.

Teglia agreed liaison might be helpful, although he cautioned that it might also "cover up where the problem really is."

Trustee Jane Powell said she hoped the liaison person would have the ability and maturity to go out into the community to work with the parents.

Trustees are looking for a mature bilingual-bicultural person.

Airport Plans Reviewed

San Francisco's Airport Commissioners on Jan. 5 engaged in a series of back-and-forth moves to drop items from their agenda, and then pick them up again.

When their meeting was over, the Commission had reviewed, but not approved, a staff request for $15,150,000 in supplemental appropriations for airport construction work soon to be started.

General Manager James K. Carr asked the Commission to drop the $15,000,000 request from the calendar, to allow aides time for providing further information on several of the 12 construction items.

Commissioners agreed to drop the appropriations, until their next meeting, two weeks hence. Over some doubts by Commissioner Joseph P. Mazzola, they

Airport Service Sought

The San Francisco Airport Commission was put on notice last week that the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors will "insist" on local taxi service to and from International Airport.

The airport, owned and operated by San Francisco, is wholly within San Mateo County.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair said he had information that the commission supports the franchise arrangement under which the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco has an exclusive contract to solicit and pick up fares at the airport.

"The problem is," St. Clair explained, "that there is a long line of cabs waiting their turn at the terminal. When their turn comes, they want the long haul into San Francisco. They don't want the short haul, to San Bruno or Millbrae for instance, because there's not as much money in it and they just have to go back and get in line again."

At his suggestion the board instructed County Manager M. D. Tarshes to send a letter to the commission stating that the county "definitely will insist on local taxi service in and out of the airport." How it will be accomplished, however, was not specified.

approved calling for bids on a $600,000 power substation to be built west of Bayshore and operated by PG&E.

They approved a $5,942 contract for sidewalk work to be done by J. M. Construction Company of San Bruno, agreed to a $948 modification of the $3,685,793 contract for Rotunda 9, and accepted a $1,600 credit remaining from funds allocated to a three-year-old jet noise suit which the city won.

Six Injured in Weekend Accidents

Two occupants of a Brisbane police car were injured Sunday when their squad car left a road while they were responding to a call for aid in South San Francisco.

Officer John Santero and police matron Lorraine Echeberry were treated for their injuries at Peninsula Hospital following the crash on Oyster Point Road about 4 a.m. Sunday.

Santero and police matron Echeberry were returning from booking a suspected female drunk driver at San Mateo City jail when a call was received from Brisbane policeman Tom Buckley requesting aid.

Responding to the call along Oyster Point Road Santero's car left the road, hit the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks and stopped. The vehicle received extensive damage, police said.

Four members of a San Lorenzo family were injured last night in an auto crash on Junipero Serra Freeway in San Bruno.

Highway patrolmen said a southbound station wagon driv-

Deadline to Register at Skyline

Acceptance of applications for admission to Skyline College for the Spring term, 1971, has been extended to Friday, January 15, Rex Butler, dean of admissions and registration, announced today.

Originally, they were to have closed last Friday.

All transcripts should also be in on that date, he said. Persons interested in taking the placement test may do so on Tuesday evening, January 19, in Room 131, Administration Building.

Mrs. Pina was reported in satisfactory condition today while her husband's condition was described as only fair. The son and daughter were released after treatment of multiple cuts and bruises.

reading, which is scheduled for January 18. It would go into effect July 1.

Merchants already have gathered together to discuss what they consider a threat to their survival. A meeting was held at noon today at the New Southern Restaurant.

According to the merchants, most breweries package their beer in practically nothing but cans and no deposit, no-returnable bottles.

Even when return bottles are available for beer or soft drinks, the public still prefers throw-aways, despite the fact they're more expensive, merchants say.

John Tanti, co-owner of Brentwood Liquors in South San Francisco said merchants aren't equipped to start storing large quantities of empty returnable bottles.

"We're all for ecology. And we'd like to help. But no one seems to be ready for this ban and the merchants here will be in real trouble," said Tanti.

Rotary Club Scholarships Are Available

The Daly City Rotary club is seeking young men and women to apply for a Rotary Foundation educational award.

Jack Erickson, the club's president, explained that the Rotary Foundation is a non-profit organization supported by contributions from Rotarians and Rotary Clubs world-wide.

An awardee receives funds to cover costs of roundtrip transportation, tuition, meals, lodging, intensive language training, if needed, and funds for educational travel during the year. Erickson pointed out.

Three types of education awards are offered: Graduate Fellowship, for 20 to 28-year-olds with a bachelor's degree or its equivalent; Undergraduate Scholarship for 18 to 24-year-olds with a minimum of two years of university level work; and Technical Trainee, for men and women, 21 to 35 years old, with a secondary education and at least two years' working experience.

Car Wash Problems Hit Millbrae Again

"Millbrae has enough noise problems without this," city planning commissioners were told Monday as they considered complaints about a recently built car wash.

New car wash enterprises have been rejected, time after time, by both the city's planners, and the city council over the past years.

Power Car Wash, at 250 El Camino Real, however, was built because a previous establishment at the same address had won acceptance.

"We could never hear the old one," neighbors told the planners, "but this new one, we hear all the time."

"The other night, it was running until 10 minutes to 11 p.m.," said one neighbor. He asked for a time limit on operation.

Commission Chairman Eugene Morasoli, after a recess to check the city's files, said there was no time limit specified in the original use permit. He said he did not know whether a time limit could be imposed, now.

Residents said they had taken the previous car-wash operator to court, and won a court-imposed restriction to those hours between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, and between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Sundays. They asked that those hours be imposed on the new owner.

Planners reminded him that the city had issued the new conditional use permit on the basis that the car wash would not "cause annoyance to the neighbors." They said they had meant that the new car wash would be no noisier than the old one.

Neighbor after neighbor, testified that the new structure is markedly noisier than the previous one, and that it does "cause annoyance."

Pacific's city council approved a use permit for an automatic car wash and gas pumps on a site immediately south of 2165 Coast Highway.

The city's planning commission last year recommended denial, but reversed itself and suggested approval.

permit issuance and supervises students on the credit program. The WEPP originally was initiated for students at Thornton High School, the district's campus for the special-problem. And priority for the work available went to the needy.

Today, however, the criteria is broader — need as well as ability, academic standing, employer requirements, nearness to potential employment. Orlich pointed out that many of the students begin their work assignments during school hours. The average released time for those who receive school credit for WEPP was two periods a student.

There are both school and employer evaluations of student work. Soon, WEPP will start bringing the pupils back to school for group discussions. Orlich said in reply to trustee John Sloane's concern about follow-up.

Millbrae Man Sets Record; Back to Work After Flight

By GEORGE GOLDING

World record holder Maurice Rosen said "it's unbelievable," Thursday, after circling the earth in 4½ hours, by commercial airliner.

"Unbelievable," was the welcome he received from newsmen in London and in Tokyo and at San Francisco International Airport, during his quick trip around the world.

"I expected nothing like this," he said.

"I expected maybe the San Mateo Times, the San Bruno Herald, the Millbrae Sun, but this, this is unbelievable."

"People on the plane, from London to Moscow and Tokyo, said they had read about me in the English papers, before I arrived."

Rosen said he had only been able to read "60 or 70 pages" of the hefty book he had carried along to keep from getting bored, and had been able to sleep "only about four hours, total."

"People wouldn't let me alone."

The Millbrae furniture man added:

"I feel great. Of course I haven't had a chance to let down, yet. People, and the press, won't let me alone."

"When I get a chance to relax, have a cup of coffee, wash up, and get down to business, I may let down. I don't know. So far I haven't had a chance."

That was at 8 on Thursday morning, when Rosen entered his "House of Stools 'n Bars" at 307 East Millbrae Avenue.

He had promised to return directly to his shop from the airport, and he did so, even if the shop does not open for business until 10 a.m.

Before leaving, Rosen had said that he was making his round-the-world record trip as a way of telling his customers that "the shop is closed on Wednesdays."

He said he had arranged the trip with TWA agents, to clip five hours off the previous record of 46½ hours, set in 1963.

Rosen left San Francisco International, eastbound, at 1:45 p.m. Tuesday, via Trans World Airlines. He switched to Japan Air Lines at London, and switched again to Pan American, in Tokyo, landing here again at 7:50 a.m.

Asked on Thursday if he would do it again, he said:

"Well, yes, sometime. I might, but right now I've got to get a cup of coffee and relax."

A photographer called to him for "just one more," and Rosen commented:

"I asked for it, but it's unbelievable."

Police Nab SSF Suspect

South San Francisco police claim they have cleared up a series of motel and airport burglaries with the arrest of a mental patient.

Police said they arrested Luther Dean Aaron, 25, an escapee from the Pueblo State Mental Hospital, Pueblo, Colorado, on Monday at the Holiday Inn.

Officers Ken Metcalf and Gary Hopper made the arrest while Aaron was attempting to flee after trying to avoid paying for lodging.

Police said he had property from seven motel burglaries committed within the past several days, also electronics equipment taken from the San Carlos Airport.

SERIES BEGINS

The Ursuline Guild of St. John's High School will begin the second series of Tuesday "Luncheon and Games" on Jan. 19 in the school auditorium, 4056 Mission Street at 11:30 a.m.

$2,823,000 Bond Sale

The Jefferson Union High School District hopes to sell $2,823,000 in bonds.

Assistant Supt. Glenn South said bid invitations will include 20-year and alternate 15-year redemption schedules.

He said the bond market has relaxed and there is a good chance of obtaining buyers at the required five per cent. The Jefferson Elementary School District, also in Daly City, recently sold its bonds to the Bank of America.

ARTISTS' SERIES

The San Francisco State College Artists' Series will begin at 3 p.m., January 17, with "Little Concertos for Small Orchestra," conducted by musician-writer Robert Commanday.

Swim Pool Landscaping

More parking and landscape work is scheduled for the new swimming pool at South San Francisco Orange Memorial Park.

The councilmen have authorized a call for bids for improvements to Tennis Drive and related swimming pool parking, and appropriated funds for city employees to work on the landscape.

The call for bids included a stipulation that the city may extend the date, on notice, because of pending negotiations with Guy F. Atkinson Company for more railroad right-of-way.

Preliminary estimates of the cost of improvements to Tennis Drive and other parking is $34,000. Cost of materials for landscaping by city employees is estimated at $10,500.

DEADLINE CHANGE

Deadline for submission of editorial material intended for publication in next week's Post is 5 p.m. Thursday.

S.S.F. Police Expansion Studied

A memo from South San Francisco Police Chief Sal Rosano regarding his support of the need for a North County police holding facility became a discussion on the status of the local station.

Chief Rosano was informing the council last week the need for a combined facility has been consistently expressed.

Councilman Frank Bertucelli then suddenly changed the subject to a Kiker-Chapman plan of the local facility, as it might look if expanded.

He praised the work of the local civil engineering firm, and along with Mayor Patrick Ahern indicated the firm should be included as a candidate to do architectural work, to either construct a new facility or expand the present one.

Acting City Manager Larry Ross said he would have a report on the subject prepared for the next study session. He said he wrote to the American Institute of Architects for names of architects experienced and qualified in police and public buildings.

Ross said he received a list of six names, one a South San Francisco architectural firm, Another name was of a South San Francisco resident who is associated with a San Francisco firm. Kiker-Chapman was not listed.

The matter of a new police facility has been a sore point ever since a capital improvements committee appointed by the council recommended a new one be built.

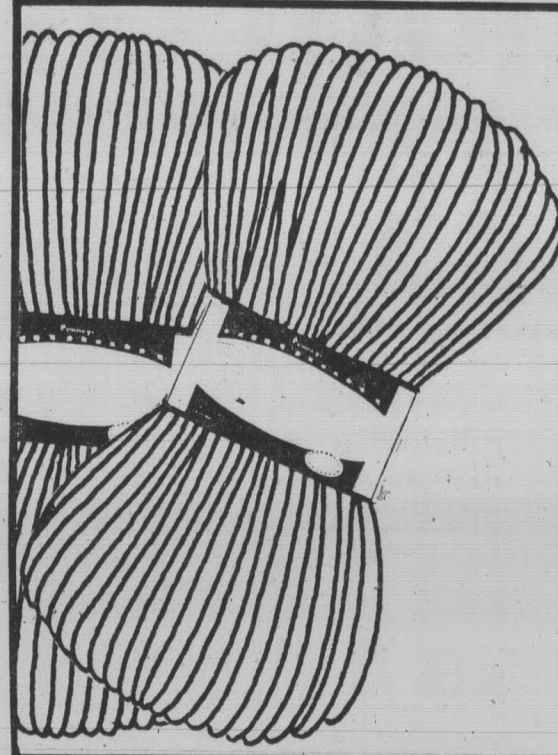

The need for a new facility is not so much disputed as is the method to finance it. Mayor Patrick Ahern has strongly opposed any method other than straight cash.

Councilman Frank Mammini on the other hand says that local governments can no longer afford the luxury of saving money over long periods in order to finance capital improvements.

To prove his point, Mammini recently submitted a "bonding analysis" to fellow councilmen. In it, he showed that the $700,000 earmarked annually for capital improvements could be put to work for the city in the form of a lease-back arrangement to bond up to $9 million over a 20 year period without an increase in the tax rate.

Students Asked to Review How Members Selected

The Pacifica City Council wants its Pacifica Youth Advisory Commission to review the method used to select student members of the Parks, Beach and Recreation Commission.

Two students, one from each of the city's high schools—Terra Nova and Oceana—have voting membership on the commission.

But city officials have pointed out that, unlike the two advisory, non-voting delegates to the city council, the PB&R student members have not been attending commission meetings.

Chairman Wally Sharp observed that if the two student members are absent he might not have the quorum of five, necessary to convene a meeting.

The commission is made up of nine members, which means three adults also are missing if a quorum is not gained.

Both the PB&R and the council believe the problem is in the method of selection.

The council still wants youth to select youth, but in a manner in which those students who might be interested in municipal government, especially Parks, Beach and Recreation, might be selected.

"We don't seem to be getting too much cooperation from the schools," Mayor Nick Gust commented.

Selection apparently is by popularity.

Armed Bandit Robs Motel

A San Bruno motel manager and his wife were tied up and robbed Friday by an armed gunman.

John Bunford, 53, and his wife, operators of the Ritz Motel on El Camino Real, were forced into a room at the motel by a middle-aged man carrying a snub-nosed gun about 4:30 p.m.

After tying up the couple using a cord from an electric blanket and a nylon stocking, the gunman ransacked the room.

Police said the suspect fled after robbing the couple of $275.

County Panel Chief Named

Ray Colombo of San Bruno Friday was elected 1971 chairman of the County Civil Service Commission.

Colombo, owner of a janitorial service, succeeds Wayne Stockwell of El Granada, a telephone company executive.

John Mackesy, Millbrae businessman, was elected vice chairman.

Attending his first meeting following appointment by the Board of Supervisors was Gary S. Goza, Portola Valley, a partner in an accounting firm.

Thief Takes Clothing

An apparently selective thief took more than $400 in men's clothes from separate rooms at the Holiday Inn in South San Francisco last night.

Police said two rooms were entered. Both had been locked and there was no sign of forced entry. The incidents occurred after 7 p.m.

James Foley of Mountain View reported the theft of selected items valued at $348. Junior Thomas Keller of Salt Lake City reported selected items valued at $183.

North County's Cities Urge Separation of County Fair and Convention Bureau

By FRANK LAPIERRE

North San Mateo County cities are not completely satisfied with present County Fair and Convention Bureau operations.

This point was brought out during a discussion of the bureau at a North County Council of Cities meeting in Millbrae Thursday.

Overwhelmingly, the cities made it known the bureau should be reorganized to better emphasize the convention facilities available in the county.

The County Fair should be handled by a separate agency, was the general opinion voiced.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes asked the group a two-pronged question:

"Do we want the Fair and Convention Bureau to continue, and are we willing to back it financially?"

Tarshes noted that the original concept of the transient occupancy tax levied countywide was to be used by the Fair and Convention board to promote attractions in the cities.

Cities were expected to remit 25 per cent of tax collected to the county.

"The board (of supervisors) is aware of the diminishing interest in this tax," Tarshes said.

He said most cities were now holding back on paying the full 25 per cent.

The reason for this slow-down in sending in taxes collected by local hotels and motels, Tarshes ventured, was the lack of cities having a voice in where the money goes.

South San Francisco Councilman Frank Mammini said the fair board had done a good job of publicizing the county "and then let it die."

Mammini said the Fair Board was non-professional in the hotel-motel business and called for a separate convention bureau board made up of professionals.

San Mateo County's second largest collector of sales taxes is the restaurant business, according to Andy Castle.

Castle, executive secretary of the Restaurant-Hotel Owners' Association, said his industry also has a weekly payroll in excess of $500,000.

"We would like to see a countywide industry bureau," Castle said.

Student Leaders Elected at SC

Two active students took over the leadership of Skyline College's student government last week.

Dennis Arreola of San Bruno who was active in the September tax election and who ran on a ticket which highlighted the importance of the forthcoming March tax emergency election, won the post of the student body presidency.

His vice-president, Ken Krause of Daly City was re-elected to the college's second highest position. Krause also is noted for his achievements in behalf of the college as a result of his successful efforts in securing the stop signs and art-als at the intersection of College Drive and Skyline Blvd.

Other persons heading the college's student government for the next term are Jocelyn Rogers, secretary; she also is secretary to the Black Student Union. Nicholas Nicolas, treasurer; former student body president and vice-president during the Fall 1970 semester and all-league soccer player and member of the Skyline Press newspaper; Craig Fitzpatrick, controller of Activities. During the past term he was a member of the student council. Tom Wright, recreation association director and a new member of the student government.

Repeal Asked of Levy

San Bruno Councilman Dick Griffith is proposing repeal of a city ordinance that allows the city to bill homeowners for repairs to sidewalks in front of their homes.

Griffith said he would seek the repeal at the Monday night council session as "a measure of indirect tax relief for the elderly."

According to the councilman the ordinance is inequitable for older citizens on fixed income.

"We tell these older people that they must bear a full share of the heavy school tax load, although they no longer have children in school.

"Then we turn around and soak these same senior citizens for repairing sidewalks which are a thoroughfare used by the general public," said Griffith.

Griffith said, "This obviously is an expense which should be taken from the capital improvement fund and assessed against the general public, regardless of whether state law permits us to do otherwise."

The councilman said he also would propose refunds out of the upcoming budget to homeowners who have paid sidewalk repair charges, "averaging $60 a family over the past two years."

Water Line Bids Sought

Bids for work on the water line at Taylor School are expected to go out last week, Millbrae School District's trustees were told Jan. 4.

Superintendent Edward J. Muehlhausen explained the policy changed in working with classified personnel, such as the maintenance crews. Under the revised policy, groups who organize themselves must be recognized by the district's board; may use the mailboxes in each school for distribution of organizational materials, and school facilities may be used for meetings upon proper application, and when there is no conflict with other school use.

The board wants the statement to be made more definitive, and this will be studied at its next session, which will be held at 8 p.m. January 18, at the district conference center in the Chadbourne School annex.

Mayor Gust Says He's Neutral

By WILL E. THOMAS

Mayor Nick Gust said last week that he neither favors nor opposes legalized card rooms for Pacifica, and he does not want to slam the doors shut on potential revenue without investigation or debate.

The mayor, a restaurant and bar owner, said he does not favor people making decisions without having the facts.

He does not have the facts and he opposes closing the door before it is ever opened, he explained at a special meeting of the city council at Oceana High School Wednesday night.

Gust commented on a local news story that stated the mayor had been approached by unidentified persons about Pacifica's position on cardrooms.

The city has a ten-year-old ordinance that bans them. The anti-gambling ordinance came in December, 1960, after nearly three months of heated debate.

The card room story was resurrected two weeks ago.

"Subsurface rumors about what could be Pacifica's most controversial issue of 1971" were reported by the Pacifica Tribune, whose editor and publisher Bill Drake opposed card rooms in 1960.

Drake said last week he still opposes them. He had dispatched a reporter a decade ago to Gardena.

Gust had offered to take Drake, and others, on a trip to Gardena. The mayor said he wanted to see for himself what the cardrooms down there look like.

"I don't know myself if I'm for or against cardrooms," Gust said. He explained that he had never seen the Gardena type of gambling palace.

Councilman Harland Minshew suggested that, "If any exploring is done, it should be done with Palo Alto," where Cardrooms are said to exist.

Minshew thought Pacifica, if it is interested, could see how the Palo Alto ordinance is written and how much revenue is received.

Councilman Dan Modena, an attorney, agreed with Gust on at least looking. He noted that the state is getting involved in related matters.

The mayor has said he would not change his business operations to include cardrooms.

"To a lot of people it's a matter of morality," Councilman Minshew asserted. He said the matter of cardrooms should be left up to the vote of the people. The five councilmen, he explained, should not legislate matters of morality.

But, he maintained, any action to alter the present anti-gambling ordinance should not be initiated by the city council.

Proponents of the cardrooms should gather the facts and present them to the council, Minshew said.

The subject was not on last night's special meeting agenda. There was no action to put it on any other agenda.

Colma Flood Control Plans Are Uncertain

By BOB PETERSON

The fate of a flood control project on Colma Creek in South San Francisco remains uncertain.

Councilmen still must decide whether to go the route of the Army Corps of Engineers or engage an independent firm for a project that possibly would give more immediate but less protection, and at a lower cost.

Congressman Paul McCloskey, the Army Corps of Engineers and the engineering firm of Wilsey, Ham and Blair have clarified a few points.

It was determined that if the city intends to utilize an Army Corps project they must make that decision within the next couple of months.

According to Army Corps representative Col. C. Roberts, the city must make application for the project before the end of the year to make the 1972 omnibus bill before Congress. He said that if the city misses this deadline, it would have two more years to wait.

City officials, however, contend they cannot make any decision as to the Corps project until they knew what percentage of the project will be financed with state money.

Another problem seems to be a determination as to whether the County Flood Control District will act as a local sponsoring agency for the project.

As to the state-related situation, Congressman McCloskey suggested letters be written Gov. Ronald Reagan, State Senator Arlen Gregorio and Assemblyman Leo Ryan impressing upon them the urgency of an immediate determination of what ratio the state will be willing to be committed to on such Contempt Ruling for Cabbie

Milton Heake, owner of the Yellow Cab Company of Pacifica, has been held in contempt of court for violation of a preliminary injunction prohibiting his cabs from picking up passengers at San Francisco International Airport.

Superior Judge Frank W. Rose made the finding following four days of testimony.

Sentence was suspended, with Heake given two weeks by the court to purge himself of the contempt by henceforth picking up at the airport only fares who have requested his firm's service in writing. He also is to submit the written order to an official of the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco at a prearranged location, the judge ordered.

A preliminary injunction was issued by Judge Rose last June ordering Henke's firm, which operated out of South San Francisco, to refrain from picking up fares at the airport, where the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco has exclusive franchise to solicit and pick up fares.

Judge Rose continued the matter until January 18 at 4 p.m. to determine if Henke has complied with the purge order.

Overpass Funds Set in S.S.F.

South San Francisco councilmen have agreed to pay one-third the $2,600 cost of painting the pedestrian overpass on Hillside Boulevard.

A request for assistance was made by the trustees of the South San Francisco Unified School District. The trustees requested "participation" in the maintenance cost and said preliminary estimates on the work was $2,600.

Mayor Patrick Ahern held out for the one-third donation, based on the fact this was the percentage the city donated toward construction of the overpass initially.

The $7,000 being sought by the city from the district is for promised payment by the district to the city for earlier construction of the Clay Avenue-Junipero Serra overpass, built jointly by the city and state.

The trustees in 1967 unanimously passed a resolution agreeing to pay $7,000 toward the overpass, as a return gesture of the city donating $6,000 toward the construction of the Hillside overpass.

The city paid its promised $6,000, but because of apparent failure to bill the school district the city never received the $7,000, which the district had set aside.

a project. (Prior to this year, the state would have picked up the entire non-federal share.)

McCloskey said he would be happy to sign the letter.

On the matter of Flood Control District sponsorship, Vice Sanders, manager of the district, said he believed the board (which is the County Board of Supervisors) would move to implement any desire of South San Francisco.

Sanders, along with South San Francisco Director of Public Works Lou Goss, will prepare the letters suggested by McCloskey.

As to the project itself, and the differences between the Corps and the Wilsey-Ham proposal, it was summed up in a report by Assistant City Engineer Ray Maxwell.

In essence, the channel proposed by the corps would have approximately twice the capacity as that suggested by Wilsey-Ham. There also would be differences in construction.

Both use a 100-year storm criteria, but they do not necessarily agree on what quantities constitute a 100-year storm.

The Corps project is estimated at this time to cost $17.2 million. Col. Roberts said the federal government would cover half this cost. The other half would be split in some fashion between the city, the state and possibly the county and the flood control district.

Wilsey and Ham's proposal, based on 1961 statistics for a 100 year storm today, according to the Ham, probably would only protect for a 50-year storm.

Another matter broached was whether the flood control district taxing formula was fair. The lowland areas of South San Francisco, for example, pay a greater share than the higher parts of the watershed, which are blamed for the flooding because construction has caused faster runoff.

South San Francisco City Atty. John Noonan said the district has the legal authority to change this situation but hesitates to do so because it is a "political problem."

Sanders said he disagrees with Noonan's contention that the higher parts of the watershed should be assessed at a greater percentage. He said he would agree some refinement is necessary.

The county engineer said that if the flood control district sponsored such a project, it would probably own and operate it, and the money generated from the district would be used for maintenance.

The latest a local public hearing could be held is June.

The Burlingame Assembly of God Church has been reserved for the June 11 wedding of Sandra L. Jones of San Mateo and Stephen C. Buttel of Millbrae. The future bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Jones and the sister of Mark Jones. She studied at San Mateo High School and the College of San Mateo. A Mills High School alumnus, the bridegroom-to-be attended Bethany Bible College and is now studying psychology at CSM. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Buttel are his parents and Nina Buttel is his sister. Gale Pearse is his foster sister.

Vows Exchanged at Carmel Chapel

Highlands Inn Wedding Chapel in Carmel was the setting for the recent marriage of Lynette Ardella Marso, and Robert Tiffany. The Rev. Robert Tarr officiated at the candlelight ceremony which was attended by a few close friends and relatives of the couple. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mrs. Lauretta Marso of San Bruno and Kleo Marso of San Francisco. Her bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tiffany of Millbrae. When Lynette recited her vows, she was wearing a floor length lace over satin gown. A pink floor length satin gown was worn by her twin sister, Linda Marso, her sister's sole attendant. Best man for the bridegroom was Charles Hartranft of Millbrae. After greeting guests at the reception which followed at the Highlands Inn, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Carmel and Monterey. They are now at home in San Bruno. Lynette and Robert both attended Capuchino High School. The bridegroom, who also attended the College of San Mateo, is the brother of Mrs. Joe (Linda) Jensen of South San Francisco and the grandson of Mrs. Edna Ludwigen. Lynette is the sister of Paulette Kaimmerdiener of San Bruno and Mrs. Roger (Carren) Giberson of South San Francisco.

'Spectrum' at Westmoor

Hoping to provide entertainment for those who attend and at the same time adding revenue to the depleted senior class treasury, Westmoor High School's senior class is presenting "Spectrum" at 8 p.m. Jan. 15 in the Little Theater.

"Spectrum" will be a night of varied entertainment with two bands, Megus and Trystlewood, a light show, and a special "surprise" singer performing.

Tickets will be sold at the door for $1.

The toy drive by the auto safety club was a success this year.

The auto safety club annually sponsors a toy drive so that needy children in Daly City might have a merrier Christmas.

A box was placed in front of the Westmoor main office where toys were deposited.

Toys were sent to the Daly City Fire Department for repairs and distribution.

The Auto Club also helped buy new toys for sick children at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco.

Vern Curtis has enlisted the aid of a tutor to work with certain math students after school.

Mrs. Carol Dunn, a graduate math student from San Francisco State, is the tutor. She graduated from State with a degree in math and as a part of her graduate work tutors students.

When Curtis first initiated the program he planned it for one semester. It has proven so beneficial the tutoring will continue for the rest of the year.

Also helping Curtis are two student tutors, Kathy Alexander and Maxine Bloom. The girls help students in their own senior math classes solve math problems.

North Rumors

YOU GOTTA BE KIDDING — Hopefully those rumors are just that: rumors. We're talking about those hot flashes going around that a North County newspaperman is tossing his hat into the April County Board of Education race.

Less than three months ago, that same person pulled out the crying towel and told us how members of the school boards should be paid for all their time and effort. We admire spirited citizens who run for public office, regardless of their platform. But, how in the world can a supposedly unbiased newsman maintain that position (unbiased) if he's told to write about a post he holds?

Apparently someone's been building up the fire under this potential candidate. Is this the best the Jefferson School District can do? Hopefully not!

SUPERVISOR JAMES V. FITZGERALD, recently installed as chairman of the board, has suggested a new umbrella outfit — somewhere between the Association of Bay Area Governments and local cities — be set up. The thought-provoking suggestion was brought up for comments at a recent meeting of the North County Council of Cities.

AND WASN'T IT NICE of the Northgate Transit Company to halt their bus service in Daly City without so much as a whisper to their patrons. Least they could have done was post notices so folks would get the message.

SAN BRUNO COUNCILMAN Dick Griffith has sent out a questionnaire to his constituents that smacks of political campaigning on one side. On the reverse is a 12-point multiple choice questionnaire. We are particularly interested in questions 9 and 10. (9) asks if the city should hire a full-time City Attorney, while (10) wants to know if the City Clerk should be appointed (by the Council). For as we know, the City Clerk is already an appointive post — by the voters!

MAYOR BILL GLANG introducing newly appointed Judge Frank Piombo at the NCC the other p.m., "I knew Frank when he was poor, but honest."

THE NAME GAME — Daly City's Mr. Robert Stewart was introduced as "My good friend Robert McStewart." (How they introduced yours truly isn't worth mentioning.)

WHAT'S THIS? Now my spies tell me that woman who wrote a letter bombing "Operation Santa Claus" really didn't write that letter. They claim the author was a male resident of Pacifica??? The matter mushroomed into a multi-person shouting match at a recent meeting of the City Council as two "concerned" women brought in several battered cans to show the city council. Our pencil broke just as we were getting into the thick of the conversation between Mayor Bud Lyett and Mrs. Madge Bradstreet and Mrs. Ivy De Witt. What it boiled down to was this (as best we could determine): Operation Santa was being blasted for something it didn't do. In its 17 years of existence, this was the first such complaint.

WEIRD CROOK — The person who stole those dozen diapers from a laundry room at 271 Price street has to be awful hardups for clothes, or King of the Local Weirdos. I mean why would ANYONE want to steal used diapers.

THERE'S A GREAT LITTLE book out on how to start stopping pollution at home. It is chock full of do's and don'ts around the home. It even has a list of detergents to use. For rates on the 52 page booklet call or write: Mrs. Howard W. Harrington, American Assn. of University Women, 774 Gailen Ct., Palo Alto, CA., 94303 (Tell 'em Frank sen'cha).

Chamber in SSF Seats President

By BOB PETERSON

Compliments poured forth more freely than the wine at South San Francisco's chamber of commerce annual installation and awards Friday night at the Airport Hilton Inn.

New president Charles Whitlock said the chamber during 1971 will "turn problems into fruitful opportunities." He also had praise for outgoing president Gordon Murphy, calling him "a real dynamo in directing the activities of 1970."

South San Francisco Awards

Murphy displayed some of that dynamic character by keeping the program moving and filling in any void with his now well-known life story. He also cited chamber members Walt McRae and William Borba for their efforts in bringing about an annual awards night.

"It's an inspiring thing (to serve as president)," said Murphy. "But unless effort is undertaken from each of us to the best of our abilities, the chamber of commerce is a failure. I think we've gone a long way."

Supervisor Jean Fassler did the installing, almost making them duly sworn officers of San Francisco. She embarrassingly corrected herself with a quick "oops."

She had a compliment, too, which seemed well deserved. It was for chamber manager Les Davis, "for the very fine job he has done with all the little details in providing background material."

Awards presentations, except for the ones done by Mrs. Fassler and Mayor Patrick Ahern, looked like a who's who of San Mateo County judges.

The first presentation was made by Municipal Judge Charles Becker. He awarded plaque and citation to local fireman George McQuade.

"He is a man who is making men out of our boys," said Judge Becker in honoring McQuade for the work he does in boy scouting, including starting a troop for mentally retarded youths.

McQuade's response to the honor was to say, "If I had all of you at a troop meeting, I'd have you stand, reach for the sky and stretch. I really appreciate it."

Municipal Court Judge Jose deLarios did the honors for hotel owner Fred Royce. In making the presentation Judge deLarios called Royce "a real civilized man with a sense of humor and a sense of duty to fellow man and community."

Royce used the response time as an opportunity to plug the boy's club and said that "all can give money."

Superior Court Judge G.

Brooks Ice presented awards to Jack Martinez, a student at Skyline College and veteran of Vietnam. Martinez arranged for a flag to fly over the college, at the time of the "upside down flag" incident.

Judge Ice said the award was highly deserved. He said Martinez was "willing to stand up and be counted." Judge Ice said he "wished such conduct was typical of all Americans."

Martinez, like Royce, made a plea for help. Martinez's request was to get the public out to vote in favor of the San Mateo College bond election March 2. "Believe me, we need your help," said Martinez. "I hope you'll give it."

Superior Court Judge Robert Miller made the presentation to Diane Sauerhoff, an airline stewardess who took an unpaid leave to work with the Tom Dooley Foundation in Nepal. "She felt it was something she wanted to do, and she did it," said Judge Miller.

Miss Sauerhoff responded that it is said that it is better to give than receive. "I don't feel I've given," she said, "but I sure have received."

Mayor Ahern had the honor of making a presentation to 13-year-old Julie Venturi for her mouth-to-mouth resuscitation life-saving of her baby cousin.

"She had the presence of mind, knowledge and courage to do something most of us couldn't do," said Mayor Ahern. The young lady said simply, "I'd like to say thank you."

Supervisor Fassler also made a presentation to a 13-year-old for a life-saving effort. He was Roger Fine of Antioch, who saved a South San Francisco family of three from drowning when he threw them an inner-tube.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Fassler said that if she'd have known earlier about the "bravery and unselfish service" she'd have had some resolutions "up here myself from the board of supervisors."

Young Roger Fine, keeping in the tradition of a man of action, and few words, said, "Thank You."

Keeping Contact

BY JAMES W. HALLEY
Post-Times Columnist

The media have criticized the President for not holding press conferences. The President has, in fact, avoided these, and held fewer meetings with correspondents than any recent President.

This has caused much wringing of hands and much discussion of how to keep the media in contact with the President. It is interesting that most of this discussion has focused on the prerogative of the press to inquire and not so much on the interest of the public in being informed. The gang meetings commonly held have proven unworkable. This results from an excess of questions, confusion, lack of pursuit, and the impossibility of discourse between one individual and a large audience of participants. Last week's format was an improvement, but still contained serious limitations.

No wonder the President is reticent to hold such conferences. Who would want to expose himself to the kind and friendly questions that were asked at the recent one?

Surrounded by books, a fireplace, and all of the pleasures of a living room, excepting only the family dog, four major correspondents interrogated the President. The manifest purpose of this gathering was for the American people to hear the President and a national audience of millions hovered over TV and radio. We did not tune in to hear the opinions of Howard K. Smith, John Chancellor, Miss Dickerson, or Eric Sevareid. These are very pleasant and bright people, but it is doubtful if an audience of 100,000, nationwide, could have been mustered to hear what they have to say.

With this in mind, let's consider a typical question addressed to the President by Miss Dickerson. It was several sentences long, and these will be set forth in this article in quotations, with some comments on the quotations, in each instance.

1. "Mr. President, I'd like to ask you about one of your specific problems, namely the economy."

Constitutions need preambles, long legal documents require introductory clauses, and speeches are often preceded by preliminary material. But a preamble to a question?

2. "Now, despite the initiatives that you've taken in the past few weeks, there is still widespread pessimism about unemployment."

At first generosity — mention of initiatives, but then the mini speech. Miss Dickerson claims widespread pessimism about unemployment and isn't going to let any question ask get in her way.

3. "In fact, in places like California there's a near panic psychology about joblessness, and your own economic advisers say that the basic trouble is a lack of confidence in the economy."

Here in a few words, the charming Miss Dickerson opens a view to panic. Before ever getting to a question, she has let a dark cloud into the living room, and has the listening audience worried about income and jobs.

4. "What do you plan to do to restore people's confidence in the economy before things get any worse than they now are?"

Finally, a question. But this isn't a question really. It's an argument. The argument in the question is that people have no confidence in the economy, that the President has not said anything about plans to do anything, that things are going to get worse if he doesn't and may get worse in any event.

Little wonder the President is hesitant about exposing himself to this kind of interrogation. Before he could utter a word, Miss Dickerson had neatly painted a picture of gloom and doom.

Politeness prevented the kind of answer she had earned. The right answer might have been quite sharp and certainly included an inquiry by the President as to whether Miss Dickerson was making a speech or asking a question.

This question was directed to domestic affairs, but others invited international disaster. In most cases, the President had to first dig himself out of a hole before he could begin some kind of rational answer. It does seem, with all of the highly educated participants of the national media, and certainly including the talented people who conducted this conference, that some questioners could be found. Miss Dickerson could well have evoked the same opportunity for response by simply asking about his plans to restore confidence in the economy. What would then be needed would be the reasonable opportunity for pursuit — follow up questions that would enable all of us to learn the details in back of the initial answer.

This last conference was much better than previous efforts. Hopefully, the next one will be a further step toward communication between the President and the people. In the meantime, all of us should be thankful that President Nixon is adept at this form of torture, for a real foot in mouth performance could trigger panic, or even a little war or two.

Just for Pleasure

Just for pleasure try these new books — "California Trip," "Hollywood And The Great Fan Magazines," and "Fun In Bed." "California Trip" is a photographic essay of our beloved state by Dennis Stock who has for 20 years been a photo-contributor to both national and international magazines. His California book is an essay with no words only pictures showing the "contrasting arenas" of life in California.

In the Golden State, Stock found that "every idea that western man explores in his pursuit of the best of all possible worlds will be searched at the head lab — California."

"Technological and spiritual quests," he states in his brief preface, "vibrate throughout the state, intermingling, often creating the ethereal. It is from this free-wheeling potpourri of search that the momentary ensembles in space spring, presenting to the photographer his surrealistic image. However, to the Californians it is all so ordinary, almost mundane."

FROM THIS MOUTHFUL of wisdom. Stock's readers turn to ninety-nine pages of pictures to fill his eyes. Page fifty shows women in mini-skirts eyeing classical paintings at a Laguna art show while paintings of nudes go unnoticed. Pages 27 and 38 show how Californians dwarf mankind with buildings and factories that seem to make new dimensions for life.

"Hollywood and the Great Fan Magazines" is a picture book, an anthology and a nostalgic trip to the not so long ago world of the 1930's. It thus becomes one great fan magazine that stretches from "The True Story of Garbo's Childhood" to "Hollywood Joins the Navy."

So read all about it: why Tarzan got a divorce; how Dietrich sold glamour; why Fifth Avenue laughed at Hollywood Society; why Bette Davis lived without her husband after six compatible years; and, finally, learn the four rules of married love from Hollywood's happiest husband, Douglas Fairbanks.

"Hollywood and the Great Fan Magazines" was edited by Martin Levin of the Saturday Review and the New York Times Book Review. His book invites his readers to "turn on your Tiffany lamp and savor the most happy time when the movies were a world of truly pure make-believe."

"FUN IN BED" is a convalescent's handbook (so relax) edited by Alice Scully. In reality it is a "diverting collection of essays, poems, cartoons, anecdotes, articles, gags, limericks, word games and puzzles."

The editor collected her material from the nations leading humorists. So, here is found the story of Nellie Neft, R.N. and Goodman Ace's reasons why only sick people go to doctors, and games by such experts as John Fuller, John Winterich and Harry Wilson.

Ryan's Journey

Sees E. Germany as 'National Jail'

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, who last year spent time in Folsom prison talking to inmates, Friday described East Germany as a "national jail."

Reflecting upon his recent European speaking tour, Ryan called his day-long trip across the Iron Curtain into East Berlin "a profound shock."

"Not even our own bias prepared me for the Berlin Wall," Ryan explained. "In spite of the years of worldwide publicity there is nothing to prepare one's emotions for the first look at the most obscene and ugly monuments to brutal totalitarian governments that has ever been erected."

The South San Francisco Democrat made the brief side trip into Communist Germany while visiting West Germany as a guest of the University of Hamburg. Ryan accepted a month long speaking engagement offered by the university and returned on January 2.

He assessed his trip as "very successful and revealing."

Ryan was not overly impressed with either the German or British Parliament systems.

"The people have very little opportunity to take any direct role in any form of policy making," he said of both.

Following a four-day seminar at the University of Hamburg, on which Ryan was the only American public official, he joined the winter lecture tour sponsored by the Amerika Haus and made speeches in 11 German cities.

His topics were: "The Committee System of the California Legislature," "Education Reform," and "Correcting Our Corrections System."

Asked if the German people treated him like the "Ugly American" portrayed in a novel by that title, Ryan answered "definitely not."

"People tend to feel a little nervous in dealing with Americans because we are one of the superpowers," Ryan ventured.

East Berlin was "incredibly crummy" to Ryan's eyes.

"Wherever I walked in East Berlin I saw grime. The subway station where I spent more than an hour and a half trying to get into East Germany was filthy. Outside, the buildings were drab and the streets were virtually deserted," he said.

His lasting impression of East Germany, Ryan said, would be a little girl he spotted during a walk bouncing a red ball on a street corner. "There was no one around. Just this little girl and she kept bouncing the ball for a long time, never smiling," he said, adding, "It gave me the creeps."

Reader Favors Police Unit Consolidation

Editor, The Post:

On December 24, I read an article in the San Mateo Times that was both cogent and seminal. I refer to the proposed Feasibility Study on the consolidation of San Mateo County's many parallel police departments.

I am in industrial engineering with the U.S. Government and readily relate to efforts to achieve maximal use of available resources. I do not suggest that San Mateo County municipalities are irresponsible nor do I suggest that our many police departments have not the individual equal in personnel quality to that found anywhere in California. I do, however, concur that a need exists for an overview of inter-community coherence in law enforcement.

Additionally, although our cities are contained within definite geographical boundaries, the sum of San Mateo County's population is amorphous and it is rare for a citizen to live, work, play and shop all in the same city that would be typical of a large city dweller. I believe that a peripheral finding of the feasibility study would indicate that an impressive number of county residents primarily consider themselves as citizens of San Mateo County and use their city's name only as a secondary locator. It is axiomatic, and entirely reasonable, that a resident of one San Mateo County city should expect equally excellent police protection while visiting another San Mateo County city.

At present, however capable the peace officer, it can be assumed that his efficiency will be affected by jurisdictional impediments and inadequate (or lack of) equipment. Also, most of our cities provide only a 3-rung ladder of promotion with nowhere to go and no way for a highly motivated officer to augment his skills for the benefit of the community.

It is quite probable that the study would show that by melding the departments and devising a sound organizational structure that there would be enough financial savings in the "common pot" to establish a truly up-to-date unified police department relevant to the now needs of the San Mateo County community.

Therefore, I urge Mayor Nick Gust of Pacifica to use all personal and official influence to initiate support for the proposed feasibility study. As for myself, I would be honored to assist in any way.

RICHARD M. KRONE,
Pacifica.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Enrico Romano Rates Anchovy Apostle Title

Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach, continues to demonstrate that among pizza makers he is indeed the "Anchovy Apostle." Romano specializes in small, medium and large pizzas, and goes to great trouble to see that you get just the right combination of ingredients atop each and every pizza. . . Antonio, the young Cuban dancer in the Finocchio show, has branched out as a singer with an interesting voice, which he shows off to advantage in numbers from the "Man of La Mancha." Everyone knew he was great at interpreting the catchy Latin-American dance steps, but now he is becoming almost as popular for his singing, which is heard nightly at this noted night spot. . . The Black Stag, a Belmont restaurant which has developed a considerable patronage within a very short time, is now offering live entertainment featuring Rockin' Ricky Zumbo, a unique musical and comedy group, Wednesday through Saturday from 9 p.m. Also not to be overlooked, between 10 p.m. and 11 p.m., is a special price for ladies' drinks. . . One of the most popular gourmet treats at Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco carries the intriguing name, "Half & Half." It's a savory steak, broiled to your exact taste, plus tender lobster tail—two superb entrees on one dinner.

Enrico Romano

BIRTHDAY HAPPINESS — Mary Ann Hay, one of the "main events" in the entertainment parade at Nick's in Pacifica, celebrated her birthday in grand fashion at a recent surprise party held in her honor. A member of Nick Gust's restaurant staff for 24 years, this dignified lady of song has been in show business for 50 memorable years. Today, at 70 years young, she has more zip and personality than many of the "swingin' youngies."

Popular Ron Case entertains in the St. Francis' Piccadilly Bar Tuesdays through Saturdays from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Case's repertoire covers all musical interests — from ballads to pops, and he's seldom at a loss to answer musical requests. . . Monday night is "Family Night" at Joe Acosta's Steak Inn, located in Hillsdale's Farmers Market restaurant complex. Children (under 12) dine for only 79 cents, with their fare being a hamburger, French fries and a beverage. Adults may take advantage of a special price on the Top Sirloin, served with potato and toasted French roll, for $1.39. Acosta, an established Peninsula food merchant, has several menu additions planned for the coming year. . . The BBQ Kitchen in Hillsdale's Farmers Market features complete dinners starting at $1.69. Hamburgers, sandwiches, side orders and desserts are other mealtime attractions, as well as several beverages, including draft beer. . . The gang at Burlingame's Putter is preparing for the club's First Anniversary celebration. This lounge has so many regulars, the festive event has been scheduled for two days: Wednesday and Thursday, January 20 and 21, from 12 noon 'til the 2 a.m. closing on both days. Live music by The Dealers, plus a free buffet served from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Ron Case

After headlining at top supper clubs in the West, comedienne-chanteuse Diana George returns to the V.I.P. Lounge of the Airport Marina Hotel, Burlingame, January 12 through April 3. With Miss George is the Phil Lenk Trio/Lenk at the piano, Joe Dupuis on drums and Robert Goodenough on base. . . Super Bowl Sunday will see a gigantic Spaghetti Feed at The Aquarius, a popular downtown San Mateo lounge. The entire day will be devoted to football AND food — "eat all the spaghetti you want" for only 50 cents per person. . . The fabulous sounds of the Sound Barrier can be heard nightly, Wednesdays through Sundays, at DeeJay's in Belmont. Taking over the entertainment spot on Mondays and Tuesdays is another great group, Expo 70. Live entertainment and dancing here seven nights a week. . . The Cisco and Boston Mason Show has returned from a quick tour of the Far East, and will be featured this weekend at Russo's in San Bruno. A perfect night out would be to enjoy one of Vince Russo's excellent dinners, then spend the remainder of the evening being entertained.

Diana George

When asked to comment on the local pro-football scene of one weekend, Restaurateur Frank Fabbro smiled weakly and replied, "It will be mighty nice seeing Baltimore and Dallas in the Super Bowl. Especially when we can watch the game in the comfort of our own homes." . . Vic and Roger's, a small but well-known Burlingame restaurant located on California Drive (just south of the theater), has recently reopened for business after being closed for a few weeks because of smoke damage from a fire in an adjacent building. Exceptionally low prices are to be found here. Serving dinner only, Wednesdays through Sundays. . . Home cooked Italian dinners are a specialty at the J and G restaurant in San Mateo. This is a "bring the family" site brimming over with hospitality. . . The Greenwillow dining room, which is housed by the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, is experiencing a business boom with its new menu of luncheon and dinner favorites. You will also find the action brisk in the plush Seville cocktail lounge located just off the hotel lobby.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Sal Carson Band Makes Tiki Debut At Harvey's

Sal Carson and his Band will fill the air with the "Big Band Sounds" at the Top of the Wheel Tiki Lounge, Harvey's Resort Hotel, South Lake Tahoe, January 12 through February 28. Original arrangements, reminiscent of the likes of Harry James, Tommy Dorsey, Benny Goodman and Glenn Miller, the Sal Carson Band will play music to please dancers who like to trip the light fantastic. . . Seems every time your Bright Lighter "pulls up a chair" to enjoy a Prime Rib repast at the fashionable Scotty Campbell's restaurant in Redwood City, we're reminded of the fact that this is a favorite dining spot for restaurateurs and club owners from all over the Bay Area on their nights off. Among those dining here last week was Phil Lehr, the San Francisco Steakery King, who was hosting his family at fireside (Phil's lovely wife suggests the Barbecued Baby Ribs — her favorite dish). And you can't believe how delicious the Prime Rib is — English cut or otherwise. . . Nick Gust has a surprise in store for his Papagayo Room patrons. It's a "Two For One Dinner" which is now in effect. Coupons are available in today's Bright Lights column which can be clipped out and presented at the restaurant. The Papagayo Room, which is tops in Mexican fare, is located along the coast at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, and is abreast with Nick's nautical Moonraker and Nick's restaurant.

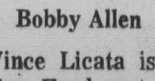

Sal Carson

EXOTIC CLARITA — One of the most popular of the many Sinaloa entertainers will make her return engagement to the Powell Street nitery in February. Clarita, a dancing bombshell who recently returned from an entertaining tour of Europe, will, no doubt, be the cause for loud "Oles" as she performs her fast-paced routines.

Handsome Bobby Allen, singer-guitarist at the beautiful Shirt Tail in Palo Alto, strolls among diners during dinner hour and presides later in the lounge. Allen, singer-songwriter, musician and actor who has two records to his credit and comes from a long, successful engagement at Plateau 7, entertains Fridays through Tuesdays in the cozy sunken cocktail lounge. . . It would seem Foster's Farm-Fried Chicken House is still celebrating Christmas, and Ole St. Nick and his "bag" are at hand. Take a look at Foster's "Two Chicken Dinners for the Price of One" offer which is good Monday, January 11, through Thursday, January 14. And that includes everything from soup to dessert. Regular price of the dinner is $2.85. How can you beat a quality, quantity bargain like this. . .

Vince Licata is again back in action at his Vince's Italian and Sea Food restaurant after blowing his "horn" at the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel, South Shore, during the holidays. As mentioned before, Vince leads the life "Riley" always wanted to. . . Lew Lehr reports this past Holiday season at his popular steak house in San Francisco's Marina district was the biggest ever. The full calendar of banquets included a big dinner party hosted by former race car driver Don Smith for his employees at Champion Auto Parts in Daly City.

Talented guitarist Carmen Ortiz has returned to her regular spot in the Lancer Lounge of Fred and Jerry Rapp's Holiday Inn, South San Francisco. Back from a two-week holiday vacation, Carmen entertains nightly, Tuesday through Saturday, with standard favorites both old and new. . . The elegant Lord Fletcher Inn, Atherton, could just as easily be situated somewhere in the rolling English countryside — it's that food and decor authentic. Even the beverages are imported from England, including London's famous Watney's Red Barrel Light Ale. . . The casual, informal atmosphere, spotless cleanliness, and moderate menu prices for quality meats and seafoods are the perennial attractions at all Stickney's restaurants. Catering to the family trade, Stickney's provide high chairs, and have waitresses who are specially-trained to handle youngsters. . . Bruno Fava, chef and owner of Bruno's in downtown San Mateo, is providing another dining treat — a deluxe dinner, featuring any steak, for just $3.95. This special offer is valid every night of the week, and is in addition to the regular menu.

NELL NORTON Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Before putting away all your Christmas recipes, look for a recipe for fruitcake, using gum drops instead of candied fruits? A friend wants one, and I'm hoping at least one Good Cook might help.

While that friend was calling for the recipe, another offered to share one.

These lemon bars are just wonderful. Easy to make and so delicious that this recipe should be filed under the heading of special treats.

LEMON DAINTIES

- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 cup powdered sugar
- 1 cup margarine or butter
- 4 eggs
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- Juice of 2 lemons or 6 Tablespoons juice
- Pinch salt
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder

Combine the two cups flour with the half cup powdered sugar, cut in the cup margarine. Press into 10x15-inch pan, pressing the mixture up the sides about 1/2 inch. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 minutes or until a light brown.

While the crust is baking prepare the filling in the following manner. Beat the four eggs, gradually add the two cups sugar, the juice of two lemons and the dash salt. Sift the four tablespoons flour with the one teaspoon baking powder and fold into the egg-lemon mixture.

Pour over the crust and return to oven. bake in 20 minutes longer.

Sift a light spray of powdered sugar over bars and cut while still warm.

NOTE: This makes large amount of bars. I halved the recipe and baked them in a 9x9-inch pan.

JUST ABOUT A MONTH AGO, when I was in the midst of Christmas baking, candy making and such, I thought that if I never looked at another sweet I'd be delighted. That was a month ago and now I'm right back in the swing of baking and tasting and enjoying every minute of it. These rich cookies filled with raspberry jam are pretty and tasty.

RASPBERRY FILL-UPS

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup confectioners sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup rolled oats
- Raspberry jam

Beat the one cup butter and half cup powdered sugar until creamy; add the egg and teaspoon vanilla. Sift together the two cups flour and half teaspoon salt, thoroughly mix with creamed mixture. Stir in the one cup rolled oats. (Dough will be soft.) Chill thoroughly.

Using spoons (and your dainty little fingers dipped in flour), drop dough onto ungreased, cookies sheets and make a depression in each cookie to hold jam. Place about a half teaspoon raspberry jam into each cookie and bake in 350 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until edges are delicately browned. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

AS DELICIOUS AS THESE COOKIES ARE, we can't make a meal of them; so let's talk about something more substantial.

LAMB AND RED BEAN GOULASH

- 1 1/2 pounds lamb stew meat
- 1 teaspoon onion salt
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- flour
- 2 1/2 cups cooked tomatoes (No. 2 can)
- 1 green pepper, diced
- 2 1/2 cups red beans (No. 2 can), drained

Tom Powell Longing for the Outdoors

Last week's cold snap had me dreaming of warm spring days again, and thinking nostalgic thoughts of camping trips into the lake country of California.

I'm not a member of the camper truck-hippie van traveler variety but prefer boat camping to islands away from the crowd. However, we all have something in common: the preparation of wholesome, appetizing food far away from grocery stores and refrigerators.

Last year we made our first try at making it a week living out of a styrofoam ice chest and a sack of canned goods. It was less than successful. Perhaps the happiest surprise was finding out that canned bacon from Denmark is very good and tastes and smells terrific in the crisp wilderness air.

However, most of the canned stuff was permeated with somebody else's sense of taste and got tiresome after a couple of days.

Homemade soups and stews, sauces, fruits, vegetables and gravies (made to your specification) will keep very well for up to a week merely nestled in some ice in that ice chest. If you're an organized camper without a lot of scurrying at the last moment, you may well enjoy preparing something particularly good a day or two before departure.

Stews are perhaps the best for eating well after preparation because the favors have a chance to intermingle. There's something special about fixing up a Mulligan stew over a campfire. But if you would rather take up the precious vacation time enjoying the out-of-doors, try making it ahead of time.

The following is an eighth-place prize winner in a national cooking contest sponsored by Better Homes and Gardens. After preparing it a few times, I'm convinced it should have won first place — far and away. Created by Mrs. Thomas Ottwell of Albany, N.Y., it is the best stew I have ever devoured.

GERMAN BEEF STEW

- 1 1/2 pounds beef stew meat, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1 large tart green apple, pared and shredded (1 cup)
- 1 medium carrot, shredded (1/2 cup)
- 1/2 onion, sliced
- 1/2 cup water
- 1-third cup dry red wine
- 1/2 teaspoon anchovy paste
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 1 small bay leaf
- 1/8 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
- 4 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1/4 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
- 4 cups medium noodles, cooked and drained
- 1/4 teaspoon poppy seed

Brown meat in hot oil. Add apple, carrot, onion, the 1/2 cup water, the wine, anchovy paste, garlic, bouillon cubes, bay leaf, and thyme. Cover and cook over low heat for 2 hours or till beef is tender. Remove bay leaf. Combine cornstarch and the 1/4 cup cold water; add to beef mixture. Cook and stir till thickened. Stir in kitchen bouquet. Serve over hot noodles sprinkled with poppy seed. Makes 4 servings.

Fred Ballew Is Quitting School Board

Fred M. Ballew Jr., a former Pacifica city councilman and civic leader, Wednesday confirmed, he is resigning from the county board of education.

Ballew, who represents the Jefferson Union High School district on the board, dated his resignation April 22 so a successor can be elected at the April 20 school election. He gave no reason for his resignation.

Ballew, an executive with the Bechtold corporation, was first named to the board four years ago. His term expires in 1973. A new board member, Jose Bernal of Menlo Park, was sworn into office Wednesday by Dr. J. Russell Kent, county superintendent of schools. Bernal was named to the board recently to replace Perry West, who resigned. A field supervisor for the county probation office, Bernal announced plans to seek a full term at April's election.

14th Anniversary Observance Planned by DC Lutheran Church Congregation

The Rev. Charles Christian arrived in Daly City June 1, 1958 to begin a new mission congregation for the American Lutheran Church.

This congregation of faithful people has served the Daly City community 14 years. The present pastor, the Rev. Thomas J. Ummacht, began serving the congregation in 1967, after 3½ years as associate pastor of the 4000 member First Lutheran Church of Minneapolis, Minn.

The Rev. Kenneth Hanson, now of Arcadia, served the congregation four years and the Rev. Jesse Thompson for 1½ years.

The congregation Sunday will begin a year long series of observances, celebrations, and special events leading up to the 15th anniversary celebration in January, 1972.

The opening event will be a 14th anniversary luncheon following the morning service. The luncheon will be followed by the annual meeting of the congregation conducted by David Kroencke, president.

Westlake Lutheran is dedicated to the proclaiming and living of the gospel of Jesus Christ in the Daly City community. Its facilities are used almost every morning, afternoon and evening by church and community groups.

Church school classes for three year olds through adults meet every Sunday at 9:45 a.m. Worship services begin at 11 a.m.

A Christian education program for seventh, eighth, and ninth graders meets every Thursday at 6:30 p.m. "Avalon Drive," a program of Christian education, music, and recreation for second graders through sixth graders meets every Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

The Avalon Drive Children's Choir, recently performed a Christmas concert at the church under the direction of the Rev. John Foreman, a professional musician.

Reverend Ummacht and Reverend Foreman are in charge of the Avalon Drive program. Over 70 children of the community are enrolled in the Wednesday afternoon program. Activities and events are held regularly for youth, families and couples. The women of the church are active in regular meetings, Bible study, and service projects and adult education programs are held regularly at the church and in homes.

In addition to these and many other activities of the congregation, many community groups use its facilities. Pre-school nursery children, Boy Scouts, Club Scouts, and Girl Scouts meet at the church building.

CHAPLAIN D. L. MESCHKE of the USS Coral Sea will direct the Coral Sea Crusaders Gospel Team at 10:45 a.m., January 17, services at the Westlake Southern Baptist Church of 90 Northridge Drive, Daly City. Chaplain Meschke will deliver the morning message.

SSF Church's Paraments

Completed white paraments for the pulpit, altar and lectern have been added at the First Lutheran Church of South San Francisco.

The Parament kit was purchased by the Confirmation Class of 1970 and the intricate liturgical embroidery was done by Mrs. Trenton R. Ferro, wife of the pastor.

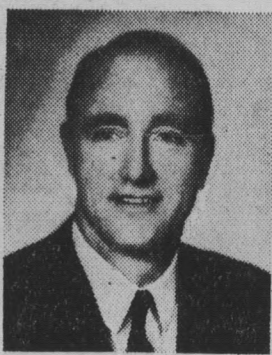

The special art of liturgical embroidery was mastered by Mrs. Ferro during the fourth year of seminary studies for her husband, the Rev. Trenton R. Ferro, while in St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Ferro has a frame of various types of liturgical embroidery which is being framed as a keepsake for their home.

Mrs. Ferro also designed and embroidered a red stole for her husband's ordination which was used at his installation at First Lutheran in September, 1969. Red is also the color worn at special church days, such as Reformation, Pentecost, all saints who died as martyrs.

An explanation of the liturgical colors helps understand why certain colors are used on different days. White is used at Christmas, Epiphany, and Easter, since white is the color of Godhead, Trinity, Purity, joy and perfection.

Red is used as a symbol of fire, fervor, blood, martyrdom, and victorious truth of Christian teaching based on the blood and righteousness of Jesus Christ.

Post-Season Reflection

NOW THAT FOOTBALL SEASON is over (actively) as it ever will be and, aided and abetted by volumes of final statistics, is about to phase into that peculiar sports limbo that might be called post-season reflecting, we think it apropos to air one of our long-standing puzzles.

Almost invariably when "sportscasters" or sportswriters talk about the "best" defensive teams, they talk about their accomplishments in terms of total yards allowed. When final statistics are published and team champions in the statistical categories are named, the team with the fewest total yards allowed is almost invariably called the best defensive team.

Seldom are numbers of points allowed taken into consideration. Seldom is the team which ALLOWS THE FEWEST POINTS considered as the defensive elite of the league. We don't understand that. Winning, to use the old cliché, is the name of the game. To win, you score more points than the other team. And it's much easier to score more points than the other team if they are scoring hardly any. Points are what determine football games, and points are what should determine team championships.

A perfect example of the fallacy of considering otherwise is the Cleveland Browns of the old All America Conference days and of the early and middle '50's of the NFL days. Seldom if ever did Cleveland give up the fewest total yards in either league. But, in their four years in the AAC, and for five of their first six years in the NFL, Cleveland allowed fewer points than any other team in professional football. As you may remember, during that span they took four AAC crowns, three NFL championships and six NFL divisional titles. The one time they didn't lead in that category they came in second, and that was one of the three times they didn't take the title. Detroit, which allowed the fewest points that year, won the championship. The next year, 1953, the Lions again beat the Browns out for the title, and that time were second to Cleveland in fewest points allowed.

The same principle should apply, of course, to offensive team championships.

TOTAL OFFENSE AND TOTAL DEFENSE statistics can distort. For example, a team with a powerful offense, such as Cleveland had in the Otto Graham-Marion Motley salad days (they were also always around the top in points scored), is often so far ahead of an opponent so early, that it allows yardage to pile up late in a game either because of an unconscious let-down, or because the coach is playing reserves.

But the old pride seldom allows many points to be scored. They tighten up when the ball moves within the 20. Some teams with clear leads prefer to go into preventive defenses.

Give the enemy the short stuff that piles on statistics, but also makes them take up precious time marching to the goal. But don't give them the bomb, the quick tally. Some teams play a lot of zone defense, which is designed not to give up the big play, but must then, almost automatically, give up a lot of yardage around the middle of the field.

But try to score on those teams! Or better yet, ask Oakland about Baltimore. In other words, a lot of offensive yardage given up by some teams is allowed after the game has already been decided.

This is often why teams with poor defenses have relatively good offensive marks; not because their offense is really that good, but because they are so often so far behind because of their porous defense, that the enemy often slackens its defenses.

'Tangs Re-enter Basketball Race

Capuchino can't be counted out of the Mid-Peninsula League race this early in the season—especially after what the Mustangs did to San Mateo last Friday.

Jimmy Johnson's five starters—possibly the best first five in the league—played for 12:59 of the first half and disordered the host Bearcats so badly that the Cap bench had no trouble holding on for a 79-53 win.

Cap's running and pressing had the 'Cats completely befuddled for the first time this season. San Mateo had 16 turnovers in the first half, most of them due to an energetic full-court press.

And when the 'Cats did bring the ball down they couldn't get inside the Mustang zone. San Mateo shot only 19 percent from the floor and seldom got a second chance at a shot, being muscled off the boards by Cap center Don Dowling and forwards Steve Newberry and Rob Silver.

Meanwhile Cap was hot, shooting 74 percent from the floor. Dowling and Newberry were able to get inside often enough that the 'Tangs didn't have to rely on Keith Hernandez' deadly outside shooting.

Still, Hernandez got game honors with 23 points, even though he was in for only two and a half quarters. Newberry sank 16 and Dowling netted 10. Forward Owen Woods led the Bearcats with 20, while Hollister Savidge got 12.

Cap evened its record at 1-1 and the Bearcats stayed in the cellar at 0-2.

Perfection is hard to beat in any league.

Burlingame High School played as close to a perfect basketball game Wednesday afternoon as one can expect from a high school team and it resulted in a 62-50 stunning victory over Capuchino's Mustangs.

The Panthers did just about everything they had to do to beat the Mustangs, who had the best preseason mark (10-1) around. The controlled pace of the game shut off Cap's fast break while center Ray Rotolo and forward Steve Kircher did an excellent job of defending Cap's front line.

For nearly three quarters the margin never went beyond three points thanks to a fine second half substitute job by Burlingame's Doc Scheppeler, who came in to bolster a weakening rebounding game. He scored five quick points as an added bonus that helped tie the game on six different occasions in that period.

Then Kircher got red-hot to open the third quarter, scoring seven rapid points (he popped for 15 of his 21 in the second half). Cap's center Don Dowling got his third and fourth personal before the half was three minutes old and he sat the rest of the period. That was the killing point for the Mustangs who didn't get a basket from 5:24 until Rob Rider's tip-in with nine seconds left that made it 49-41 at the break.

Forced to play catchup ball in the final period Cap was led into numerous fouling situations. In fact, line accuracy was extremely helpful to Burlingame as the Panthers sank 26 of 32 charity shots. But both Dowling and Rob Silver fouled out before the final quarter was half over and the Mustang bench just couldn't supply either the offense or rebounding needed in this one.

Cap began hounding the Panthers all over trying to make up the 10 point advantage but Burlingame went into a stall of offense with four minutes left and it was a beauty. Bettendorf's stall was nothing new but this time it was perfect as Cap was always two steps in back on the ball as court-wide passes just wore down the Mustangs physically.

"It's really tough to beat Capuchino in its own gymnasium," Bettendorf stated after the frantic affair, "so this was really an important victory."

allowing a lot of yardage that looks good in the final statistics but which has nothing to do with winning games.

AT THE RISK OF BECOMING ESOTERIC, it occurred to us as we watched all those high pressure football games over the holidays that perhaps they weren't always quite as high pressure for the individual athletes as we might think.

What we mean specifically is that there is less pressure in doing the spectacular in pressure situations than there is in doing the ordinary.

Example: You are an end. Your team is behind by five points and there is only time enough for one play. The qb calls for a play which will place you in the end zone for the td pass. The qb gets perfect protection.

There you are, standing all alone in the end zone waiting for a perfectly-thrown pass, that is about to hit you in the letters as 90,000 watch.

You drop the ball. Why? Because you had time to think about it, to think about the money, about the mink coat you promised your wife, because this is one pass that can't possibly be flubbed.

But, take the same situation—except that this time you are double-covered, in a crowd, and the pass is thrown three feet over your head and two feet to the left. You don't have time to think. You must act instinctively (and most athletes are much better off relying on their instincts than their thought processes), yet if you do manage a flash of thought, as you dive recklessly, headlong for that ball, disdaining all personal physical well-being, the flash is saying, what have I got to lose? If I catch it, it's a miracle, if I miss it, I'd only be doing what any human being could be expected to do in an impossible situation.

ANOTHER THOUGHT as we watched those games: All during the season we kept hearing about these coaches who wanted to establish the running game early. Some of them didn't establish the running game until they were so far behind that they had to abandon what had taken them so long to establish and go to the catch-up passing game.

Their reasoning is that you must have a nearly balanced attack and that you can't pass effectively until you've tightened the defense.

What we want to know is, what's wrong with first establishing a passing game to open the defense up to make it later vulnerable to a running attack?

NORTHWESTERN'S MIKE ADAMLE, in the East-West game, took us back to yesterday in college football, when quick, square-rigged, hard running backs of 5-9, 190, such as Adamle—were called, "typical Big Ten backs."

The way Adamle ran in that game (in fact, ran all year) might prove that the generation gap isn't so big, after all; that what worked 20 years ago still might be of value today and that there is some substance to some images.

Typical, old-time Big Ten back, that Adamle!

WHEN THE 49ers lost the toss in the Dallas game, which allowed them the choice of goals to defend, and they chose to play the first quarter with the wind in their face, we thought, aha. Smart. That way they'll be going with the wind in the last quarter, and they'll also have that annoying, low-hanging sun at their back, while Dallas will have it in their eyes.

As it turned out, this brilliant thinking was not a factor in the game. A team usually is thinking in terms of field goals when it thinks of which way the wind is blowing (too stiff a wind even at your back can often damage a passing game), but the 49ers needed at least one td in that last quarter and the fg wouldn't have been a factor unless and until that td was scored. If that were the nice bit of strategy the 49ers had in mind, it backfired, because the sun broke up at least two or three potentially long-gainer pass plays for them in the third quarter, and was below the rim of the stadium in the fourth quarter, when the Cowboys had the ball going in that direction.

What the 49ers (and we) forgot was that they had never played in Kezar that late in the season, and that That Lucky Dill Sun just kept movin' around.

Coffee Shop Victorious in Coast League

Kerries Coffee Shop handed the Johnson Jewels their ninth loss, 79-46.

Kerries clinched first place. Dick Drake and Mike Kennedy scored 21 and 18 points respectively to lead the Coffee Club's attack.

Kerries will meet the French Club in the Play-offs.

The Fearless French Club cracked past Dial Glass, 56-54. The win enabled the Frenchmen to make the play-offs against Kerries.

Dial finished in second place and will meet the AAA in the play-offs. Tim Heza of the French Club and Bob Fallows of Dial each scored 19 points.

John Tolson and Don Johnson scored 42 points as Turner Ford up-ended the AAA, 61-45. Ron Sedemaker scored 15 points to pace the AAA.

Don Johnson of Turner Ford finished the league with 174 points scored and a 17-point average to win the scoring title.

Boys! You still have until today, January 13th, before 5:00 p.m. to sign up at your nearest playground for the boy's basketball league. The league will be played on Saturdays at Terra Nova High School, Oceana High School, Linda Mar School and Sharp Park School.

Waiting Pays Off for Camino, As Terra Nova High is Upset

Coaches with losing records in practice season usually look forward to the 'new' season—conference play—and this is one time the waiting really paid off for the El Camino Colts.

Rene Herreras' quintet, which was on the losing end of the last seven games it started, pulled quite an upset by surprising the visiting Terra Nova Tigers 60-51, last Friday to highlight North Peninsula League action.

In other NPL contests, South San Francisco blasted Half Moon Bay, 101-71. Westmoor handled Serramonte, 66-51, and Jefferson downed Oceana, 46-41.

On paper it was no-matchup at all. Terra Nova had the record and the height and was counted on as the one team that really might give Westmoor a battle for the title. Camino hadn't even been impressive but

Sophomore Gavin Long hit six of his seven floor shots including seven points in a stretch that saw Westmoor go from a 9-9 tie to a 22-9 lead in the second period as the Rams made a successful debut of a possible championship year. Long scored 12 timely points while guard Brad Quansom popped for another 17 against the Regents. Cornell Clash exhibited a soft foul line jumper for 17 Regent points before he fouled out in the final period. Jefferson stopped Oceana's bucket production at three in the first half and the Indians went on to a successful 1971 debut. Tied 42-42 at the quarter the Indians surrendered just three more points before intermission that gave them a nine-point bulge. Gary Lindsey led Jeff with 13 points while Terry Johnston scored 14 for the Sharks.

Knights Get Easy Triumph Over Falcons

The Hillsdale Knight cage squad did little Wednesday afternoon to dispel anyone's notion that this year's team will rank high in the standings at the close of the Mid-Peninsula Basketball League season.

The Knights cruised over visiting Crestmoor 69-46. From the opening tap it was apparent that Hillsdale had come to play basketball. Senior Vance Schram ignited the Knights with a baseline jumper only 20 seconds into the game and a 2-0 lead they never relinquished.

Schram and senior forward John Morton dominated the boards and combined for 13 first quarter points as Hillsdale took a 20-7 lead into the second stanza.

Hillsdale's rebound edge and tenacious defense just would not allow the scrappy Falcons from San Bruno to get going until the second half started.

Crestmoor's junior guard George Ama sparked a momentary Falcon rally, but the shooting of Schram and the passing of senior Ed Kertel snuffed it out.

Boat Shows Opens

By GARRY NIVER

The twenty-ninth revisit of the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show started its ten-day run at the mammoth Geneva Avenue Cow Barn as the most celebrated show of its type in the nation Friday.

"The San Francisco Sports and Boat Show is now the largest indoor exposition held anywhere in America," said Tom Rooney. Besides utilizing all of the space of the Cow Palace, the exhibits spill out into seven pavilions, three halls and outdoor display areas.

"The Cow Palace, because of its large dimensions, is the only type of building in the nation which could house a show of this size," noted Rooney. "And," he woefully admitted, "we are beginning to run out of room here." Rooney is optimistic that this year's show will top last year's record attendance number of 385,000.

Making its debut in the spacious confines is the Airphibious One, a combination balloon and boat. Designed and constructed by famed balloonist Don Piccard, it will be the first balloon in history to have scheduled flights indoors. It stands 35 feet high and is filled with 10,000 cubic feet of helium.

Queen ship of this year's show is a 51-foot Crown Royal Catamaran Cruiser from Holiday Mansion, the largest houseboat ever to be exhibited indoors.

The luxury houseboat, which is propelled by twin 170-hp engines, features air conditioning, an all-electric kitchen, stereo and sleeps eight people.

Menlo Park's Land N' Sea Craft, Inc. also has a unique entree in this year's show in the form of a trailerable housecruiser. The craft has been designed to double as a mobile home on land and as an off-shore cruiser on water. It sleeps seven and is 26 feet in length.

And for the hip set, the show is featuring the world's largest floating Juke Box. The Jukeboat, which is replete with a dressing room where the broadies can change into a bikini, is furnishing rock music throughout the show.

Show hours are from 2 to 11 p.m. each weekday; 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturdays, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays.

The show will end January 17.

Hot Bruno Campaign Talk

It's no secret that most of the 12 candidates running for the posts of the three San Bruno councilmen facing recall are basing their platforms on what they consider an improper decision.

A reading of the statements of qualifications will verify it.

Candidate James A. Hensel Jr., 60, an airline employee for the past 25 years and a senior planning commissioner, however, doesn't dwell on the controversial appointment of City Manager Christopher Menkin.

He said, "My primary concern is the cost of city government and the resulting taxes. Broadening the tax base to help the homeowner will be my prime effort."

Henry B. Siddall, 38, who lists his vocation as master sergeant in the U.S. Air Force, cites his experience as a supervisor and administrator of radar schools as qualifications. He makes no reference to the Menkin controversy.

And district manager Stephen A. Diamond, 26, says simply, "San Bruno must be represented by all sections of the city."

Orville Wycoff, who headed the recall movement to this point, then bowed out to run against Mayor Neil Christal, made no specific remarks.

The teacher, who also is assistant dean at Balboa High School in San Francisco, listed his many achievements in education and the community. He has verbally blasted Christal in the past.

Christal, generally quiet, recently responded to Wycoff with some rhetoric of his own.

"Under the guise of the recall committee he has used innuendo, badgering and pressures to further his own political ambitions," charged Christal. "How can Mr. Wycoff expect the public to believe his integrity after filing his candidacy for city council. This completes the lie of his original statement that he was not involved in the recall election for any political purposes."

Both Christal and fellow Councilmen Dick Griffith and Ted Long have held that there were "irregularities" in the gathering of the recall signatures.

Griffith possibly has been the most vocal on this point. He even put in his answer to the recall petition that, "It is my belief that proponents of this petition have already committed procedural errors which will invalidate this instrument."

Griffith also has charged Councilmen George Corey and Maurice Hamilton as the "prime perpetrators" of the recall.

And the other candidates? Dan Pecoraro, 31-year-old stockbroker, said, "It seems of little benefit to replace one clique by another. I am independent. My candidacy offers the community a new face with a background to do the job."

Towing and auto service owner and operator Dudley Marshall, 43, said, "I believe the city council should be governed by the people. Taxpayers, including city employees should be allowed to speak the democratic way."

Charles R. Hanley Jr., 39, a school teacher in San Bruno, said, "I stand for the constant assurances and improvements of mutual trust and confidence between the city council and the people who make San Bruno their home."

And Anthony Governale, 41, electronics executive and former council candidate, said, "We must have a high degree of citizen participation and openness in the selection of professional employees, board and commission members."

Former councilman and mayor Robert D. Price, 59, said, "Responsible government is demanded by the electors."

Margaret A. Kozkowski, 43, chairman of the San Bruno Park School District, said, "San Bruno deserves administrative and personnel practices that are open, responsible and above suspicion."

Another teacher, Roberta Jean Peck, 40, said she has a "desire to listen to all of the people," and offers "a level-headed, no-nonsense approach to city government."

Ruth Harris, 47, a secretary for "high administration," said she wants San Bruno to be "a lovely noise and pollution-free place in which to live, with government having a true respect for the rights of its people."

Councilman Long, meanwhile, is urging residents "not to become impassioned with emotions." He suggested they take a close look at the activities of the past year when considering future conduct of the city government.

Long said every candidate has criticism for what they call irresponsible action, dogmatically insisting upon the firing of Menkin without any insight as to the kind of job Menkin is doing.

"I hope the prospective candidates will qualify themselves to debate such issues as water reclamation, mandatory recycling efforts and extensive open space planning," said Long.

He referred also to what is expected to be over 2,000 pages of transcript on the numerous environmental control study committee hearings which were held to orient San Bruno to its problems.

"I would suggest those candidates be prepared to spend from 20 to 40 hours per week not only in doing their homework, but in expanding the city in many of these areas," said Long.

Burns Fatal

Joseph Ferguson, 72, who was critically burned in an apartment house fire at 117 Santa Maria Avenue, San Bruno, early Jan. 5, died of his burns at Peninsula Hospital Friday.

Coroner Paul B. Jensen reported Ferguson suffered 40 to 50 per cent burns over his body. He climbed out of a bedroom window and slid down a drain pipe to escape flames.

Surviving is a daughter, Josephine Morgan of 2960 Concord Way, San Bruno.

HENSON, Ervin E., 67, 2441 Maywood Drive, San Bruno, January 4. Services at Nauman & Lincoln Chapel, South San Francisco.

Boy Accused in Slaying To Remain in His Home

A 15-year-old Daly City boy to remain in his home.

Juvenile Court Judge Allison M. Rouse, acted on a petition which alleged involuntary manslaughter, and made Timothy Ridella a ward of the court and placed him under Probation Department supervision.

Young Ridella, at home with his parents since December 16, was permitted to stay there.

The fatal shooting occurred in the Ridella home at 65 Florence Street about 11:30 p.m. December 13.

Police reported the brothers had argued over a bowl of potato salad. When Michael, 18, began slapping Timothy around, the younger brother grabbed his father's .22 caliber rifle. During a struggle the gun went off.

The bullet struck the victim in the right chest and lodged in the back. Doctors at Mary's Help Hospital worked for almost two hours to save the youth's life. He died at 2:11 a.m. December 14.

The parents were away at the time of the incident. Another brother was asleep in a nearby bedroom.

The youth had been booked on a murder charge by Daly City police.

Rec Board Told Role

Pacifica's Park, Beach and Recreation Department should know its role now.

Its members have claimed they haven't known what the city council expected of them over the past two years.

They called it lack of communication with the city's elected leaders when they got together this week—"finally," they said—for the first time in two years.

Commissioner Sheila Hyman said the whole problem evolved simply because the Commission had made up its own set of rules.

"The job description was drawn up by the employee, not the employer," she said.

The councilmen did not appear to believe there really was much of a communications gap in the first place.

They've always thought of the commission as advisory to them, preferably through the Recreation Director (Richard Burton) via the City Manager (James Swayne).

Mayor Nick Gust disclaimed there was a lack of community solely because the two units of government hadn't met in two years.

"There is no reason to say," Gust said, "that we don't agree or don't know, or that you don't know."

The city council is the policy-making body, he said.

Councilman Stanley Farber also said he was not puzzled over the PB&R role, although he wanted to know what PB&R thought it was.

Ken Matias, Linda Mar school principal, said, "It's not a point of who's the good guy or the bad guy. We just want to know where we stand."

"Councilman Harland Minshew was a bit more direct:

"Just what specifically has got you teed off?"

An assortment of assertions followed, and Councilman Farber observed:

"Anytime you have a strong commission, you'll have clashes. That doesn't mean there is a lack of communication."

'Then and Today' Topic of Sermon

Pastor David Donnelly will speak on "Then and Today" at the 10:55 a.m. Jan. 17, worship hour at the Westside Baptist Church in Daly City.

This is the second in a series of messages on Evangelists.

A children's church is conducted for boys and girls four through seven years of age at the same time.

A new youth group now meets at 6 p.m. each Sunday.

"Eager Beavers" is a group for first through third grade boys and girls, directed by Mr. and Mrs. James Chappell.

"Assurance of Victory" is the topic of the 7 p.m. Family Fellowship gospel hour message.

At this service, Japan missions will be spotlighted with a talking prayer letter and a display of Japanese dress and curios by Miss Lois Nakano. Several missionary profiles will be presented.

A special business session of the church will be conducted and names will be brought by the Deacon Board to the membership for action.

The women's Bible class will meet at the Social Hall of the church at 10 a.m. Jan. 19.

Youth and adult Bible study and prayer groups, and three Girl's Missionary Guild groups will meet at 7:30 p.m. today.
